PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 9.—At half-past 12 to-day the steamer Donahue was launched from the ways-yard, near Petrero gas-works. The boat has been three months building, and is built entirely of California wood, iron strapped and copper fastened; is intended for the Donahue route, to take the place of the steamer Anclote. The Donahue is one of the handsomest steamers on the bay, and it is presumed will prove the swiftest.

A laborer engaged on the Palace Hotel fell to-day a distance of twenty-five feet and sustained serious injuries, the extent of which has not yet been determined. He was crossing a timber and missed his footing; by walking a little out of his course, he would have had a safe passage and escaped the mishap.

The Independent Movement in California.

A meeting of the people's Independent State central committee is to be held in this city Thursday, 21st inst. The object of the meeting is understood to be to take measures for the nomination of a State ticket, members of Congress, Judge, Superintendent of Public Instruction, city and county officers in all the counties, cities and towns to be voted for at the September election, and to provide for a thorough and spirited campaign. Letters received from members throughout the State promise a full attendance.

Death of the Editor of "Figaro."

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 9.—T. L. Johns, editor of Figaro, died last night at his lodgings, No. 117 Sixth street, from effects of an overdose of morphine, taken to alleviate the pains of dyspepsia. Deceased was an Englishman, and for a considerable time a British Admiralty clerk. He removed to Victoria, B. C., in 1862; in 1863 went to Sacramento, and has resided here since 1864. Deceased was 33 years of age, and leaves a wife and two children.

Trial of Tiburcio Vasquez.

SAN JOSE, Jan. 8.—Examination of witnesses in the Vasquez case closed yesterday. Lewis Shearer positively identified Vasquez as the man who shot Davidson. The principal witness for defense was Vasquez himself. The general tenor of his testimony is to the effect that Leiva was prime mover in the Tres Pinos affair. He (Vasquez) killed no one, and endeavored to prevent the shooting. Defense asked for adjournment, which was granted till 9 o'clock to-morrow.

The Bandit Sentenced to Death.

EUREKA, Jan. 10.—The Daily Times this morning says it is now a conceded fact that discoveries of cinnibar have been made in Humboldt county. Specimens of ore taken from the ledges have been tested with satisfactory results. The locality of the discoveries is on the line of the Kneeland's Prairie and Round Valley wagon road, near where the same approaches the boundary line between Humboldt and Trinity counties. Two hundred persons are reported on the ground locating claims.

ARIZONA.

For the Encouragement of Bores.

TUCSON, Jan. 8.—A bill has been introduced in the House to encourage the sinking of artesian wells. It proposes to give a bonus of $5,000 and allow persons to operate as near running water, as they choose, instead of 10 miles distant, as heretofore, with only $1,500 bonus.

Indian Troubles in Arizona.

MARICOPA, Jan. 8.—Several trains, arrived recently from Yuma, complain of being delayed by Indians stealing or running off stock, and only returning the same when rewards of from $8 to $15 were offered. Wagon masters complain bitterly of these proceedings and say it will end in some of the scoundrels being killed. Then look out for an uprising of red skins.

MARICOPA, Jan. 9.—Another outrage was committed on a freight train between here and Sweetwater by Indians on Wednesday. The teams were delayed two days and the stock run off and only returned when a reward was paid. This is the third case of the kind within a week.

UTAH.

SALT LAKE, Jan. 9.—The first severe storm and cold weather during the winter occurred yesterday and last night along the Union Pacific Railroad. In the morning the thermometer stood 16° below zero at Orpaha and 25° at Cheyenne. It is snowing and blowing at Cheyenne and the westward up train is reported eleven hours late at Green river this evening.

The Old Story of Shame and Death.—

Buffalo, Jan. 5.—Adelaide Canute, a young Canadian girl from St. Catherines, died at a boarding house in this city on Wednesday morning last, and it has since transpired that an abortion performed upon her by a physician of this city was the cause of her death. Late on Saturday evening Dr. Madden was arrested charged with the crime, and committed to jail to await an examination. The unfortunate girl refused to name either her seducer or the physician who performed the fatal operation.

The manager of the Port Gamble mills shut down everything on New Year's Day, and with all on board the new steamer Yakima sailed away to the Seattle races.

A HORRIBLE DEATH.

Destruction of Western Hotel, Sacramento, by Fire.

Two Old Residents Burned to Death.

Others Believed to Have Lost Their Lives.

Origin of the Fire.

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 9.—At half-past 2 o'clock this afternoon an alarm of fire was rung, when it was discovered that the Western Hotel was on fire. The fire originated in the oil room. The second porter of the hotel was in the room trimming lamps, when some of the oil caught and was badly burned in the face. Every effort was made with the appliances at hand to quench the flames, without avail. An alarm was given too late to save the building and lives of those who perished amidst the volumes of dense smoke and scorching heat. Long before the engines were at work, there was a dense throng of men, women and children crowded on K street and an alley in the rear of the hotel. A second alarm was sounded, and the relief engine called out, but even with this reinforcement the chances for saving the block were dubious. The fire was attacked from front and rear at the same time, and quenched from floor to floor, until confined to the roof alone. Here great difficulty was experienced in reaching the flames, the firemen being driven out of the third story several times by smoke.

While the fire was at its height, people in the alley running from Second to Third street, beheld a fearful sight. In the third story was seen

THE BLANCHED FACE OF A MAN

Who knew that death stared at him on every hand. Before the murmur of horror had ceased in the crowd below it was gone. The man undoubtedly perished, but could have saved himself at the risk of broken limbs had he known there was a balcony under the mass of smoke rolling beneath him.

In a room in the northwest corner of the third story was an invalid lady, who, but two hours previously, had given birth to a child. She was unable to move from her room, and was not taken out until the firemen had fought their way to her door. This portion of the hotel was shortly afterward

A MASS OF SCATHING FLAMES.

About 5 o'clock the fire was under control, and at 8 o'clock the throbbing engines had ceased their mutterings.

The wildest reports were abroad in regard to loss of life. The curious rushed from K street to the alley and back again, inquiring about the bodies that had been lowered from the upper stories. When the flames had been so far subdued in front that the firemen could get on the porch and enter the building, several went in and found in the hallway on the third floor

THE BLACKENED CORPSE OF A MAN.

The body was carried to the front, a rope fastened under the armpits and lowered to the street. The ghastly spectacle of a human body blackened and charred, its clothing hanging to the body, and swinging in mid-air, sent a thrill of horror through the assembled thousands that thronged the street. When the corpse reached the ground it was taken in charge by the police and a general rush was made by the crowd to view the horrible sight. The dead wagon came not long after and conveyed the body to the coroner's office, where it lay on a board for identification, and the curious throng gathered there to view the remains. The body was dressed, excepting hat, coat and shoes. The man had evidently been lying on the bed in his room, in his pants and stockings.

The body was soon identified as that of

SIMON B. CONKLIN,

For many years a compositor in the Sacramento Union office. He was highly esteemed by his brother printers and newspaper men generally, as an excellent printer and gentleman. He was horribly burned about the feet, especially, of which nothing but the charred stumps remained. The hands and face were burned to a crisp and it was with difficulty the body could be recognized by intimate friends at the morgue. Deceased has a mother living in Rochester, N. Y., 83 years of age. He was about 30 years old.

Another body was taken out of the ruins, supposed to be that of

JOE COURT,

An old Sacramentoan, who was one of the original proprietors of the Union. He was stopping at the hotel. It is supposed that there are more dead bodies in the ruins.

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 10.—Another body has been taken out of the ruins of the Western Hotel. It is beyond recognition, the head being completely burned. It is supposed to be that of a woman. This ... three bodies found, and others are supposed to be in the ruins.

Other Fires.

At 3:35 this morning a fire broke out in the residence of Richard Caverly, Seventh street, between E and F. The house was completely gutted, and the roofs of the adjoining houses, owned by Mr. Sickebe on one side, and Mr. Miller on the other, are damaged some. Caverly was insured in the Liverpool and London for $500.

Another fire broke out at an early hour this morning, completely destroying the dwelling-house owned and occupied by Mrs. Ellen Renney, a colored lady.

LIVINGSTONE.

The Last Days of the Great Explorer.

EXTRACTS FROM HIS RECENTLY PUBLISHED JOURNALS—THE FINAL JOURNEY AND ITS SAD CONCLUSION—LIFE DYING OUT SLOWLY—HIS SOLITARY DEATH IN THE NATIVE HUT.

To-day, the 27th April, 1873, he seems to have been almost dying. No entry at all was made in his diary after that which follows, and it must have taxed him to the utmost to write: "Knocked up quite, and remain—recovering—sent to buy milch goats. We are on the banks of the Molilamo." They are the last words that David Livingstone wrote. From this point we have to trust entirely to the narrative of the men. They explain the above sentence as follows: Salimane, Amisi, Hausani and Laede, accompanied by a guide, were sent off to endeavor, if possible, to buy some milch goats on the upper part of the Molilamo. They could not, however, succeed; it was always the same story—the Muzitu had taken everything. The chief, nevertheless, sent a substantial present of a kid and three baskets of ground nuts, and the people were willing enough to exchange food for beads. Thinking he could eat some Mapira corn pounded up with ground nuts, the doctor gave instructions to the two women, Mpoze and M'toweka, to prepare it for him, but he was not able to take it when they brought it to him.

28th April.—Men were now dispatched in an opposite direction, that is, to visit the villages on the right bank of the Molilamo as it flows to the lake; unfortunately, they met with no better result, and returned empty handed. On the 29th of April, Kalunganjovu and most of his people came early to the village. The chief wished to assist his guests to the utmost, and stated that, as he could not be sure that a sufficient number of canoes would be forthcoming, unless he took charge of matters himself, he should accompany the caravan to the crossing place, which was about an hour's walk from the spot. "Everything should be done for his friend," he said. They were ready to set out. On Susi's going to the hut, Dr. Livingstone told him that he was quite unable to walk to the door to reach the kitanda, and he wished the men to break down one side of the little house, as the entrance was too narrow to admit it, and in this manner to bring it to him where he was; this was done, and he was gently placed upon it, and borne out of the village. Their course was in the direction of the stream, and they followed it till they came to a reach where the current was uninterrupted by the numerous little islands which stood partly in the river and partly in the flood on the upper waters. Kalunganjovu was seated on a knoll, and actively superintended the embarkation, while Dr. Livingstone told his bearers to take him to a tree at a little distance off, that he might rest in the shade till most of the men were on the other side. A good deal of care was required, for the river, by no means a large one in ordinary times, spread its waters in all directions, so that a false step or a stumble in any unseen hole would have drenched the invalid and the bed also on which he was carried. The passage occupied some time, and then came the difficult task of conveying the doctor across, for the canoes were not wide enough to allow the kitanda to be deposited in the bottom of either of them. Hitherto, no matter how weak, Livingstone had always been able to sit in the various canoes they had used on like occasions, but now he had no power to do so. Taking his bed off the kitanda, they laid it in the bottom of the strongest canoe, and tried to lift him, but he could not bear the pain of a hand being passed under his back. Beckoning to Chumah in a faint voice, he asked him to stoop down over him as low as possible, so that he might clasp his hands together behind his head, directing him at the same time how to avoid putting any pressure on the lumbar region of the back; in this way he was deposited in the bottom of the canoe, and quickly ferried across the Muhlama by Chowpere, Susi, Parijala and Chumah. The same precautions were used on the other side; the kitanda was brought close to the canoe, so as to prevent any unnecessary pain in disembarking. Susi was now hurried on ahead to reach Chitambu's village, and superintend the building of another house. For the first mile or two they had to carry the Doctor through the swamps and plashes, glad to reach something like a dry plain at last. It would seem that his strength was here at its very lowest ebb. Chumah, one of his bearers on these, the last weary miles, the great traveler was destined to accomplish, says that they were every now and then implored to stop, and place their burden on the ground. So great were the pangs of his disease during this day that he could make no attempt to stand, and if lifted for a few yards a drowsiness came over him, which alarmed them all excessively. This was specially the case at one spot where a tree stood in the path. Here one of his attendants was called to him, and, on stooping down, he found him unable to speak from faintness. They replaced him in the kitanda and made the best of their way on the journey. Some distance further on, great thirst oppressed him; he asked them if they had any water, but, unfortunately, for once, not a drop was to be procured. Hastening on for fear of getting too far separated from the party in advance, to their great comfort they now saw Farijala approaching with some, which Susi had sent forthfully sent off from Chitambo's village. Still wending their way on, it seemed as if they would not complete their task, for at a clearing the sick man entreated them to place him on the ground, and to let him stay where he was. Fortunately at this moment some of the outlying huts of the village came in sight, and they tried to rally him by telling him that he would quickly be in the house that the others had gone on to build, but they were obliged, as it was, to allow him to remain for an hour in the native gardens outside the town. On reaching their companions it was found that the work was not quite finished, and it became necessary, therefore, to lay him under the broad eaves of a native hut till things were ready. Chitambo's village at this time was almost empty. When the crops are growing it is the custom to erect little temporary houses in the fields and the inhabitants, leaving their more substantial huts, pass the time in watching their crops, which are scarcely more safe by day than by night; thus it was that the men found plenty of room and shelter ready to their hand. Many of the people approached the spot where he lay whose praises had reached them in previous years, and in silent wonder they stood round him resting on their bows. Slight drizzling showers were falling, and as soon as possible his house was made ready and banked round with earth. Inside it the bed was raised from the floor by sticks and grass, occupying a position across and near to the bay shaped end of the hut; in the bay itself poles and boxes were deposited, one of the latter doing duty for a table, in which the medicine chest and sundry other things were placed. A fire was lighted outside, nearly opposite the door, while the boy Majwara slept just within to attend to his ... wants in the night. On the 30th April, 1873, Chitambo came early to pay a visit of courtesy, and was shown into the doctor's presence, but he was obliged to send him away, telling him to come again on the morrow, when he hoped to have more strength to talk to him, and he was not again disturbed. In the afternoon he asked Susi to bring his watch to the bedside, and explained to him the position in which to hold his hand, that it might lie in the palm while he slowly turned the key. So the hours stole on till nightfall. The men silently took to their huts, while others, whose duty it was to keep watch, sat round the fires, all feeling that the end could not be far off. About 11 P. M. Susi, whose hut was close by, was told to go to his master. At the time there were shouts in the distance, and, on entering, Livingstone said: "Are our men making that noise?" "No," replied Susi, "I can hear from the cries that the people are scaring away a buffalo from their dura fields. A few minutes afterward he said slowly, and evidently wandering, "Is this the Luapula?" Susi told him they were in Chitambo's village, near the Mulilamo, when he was silent for a while. Again, speaking to Susi, in Suheli this time, he said, "Sikun' gapi kpenda Luapula?" (How many days is it to the Luapula?) "Na zanai zikutato, Bwana," (I think it is three days, master,) replied Susi. A few seconds after, as if in great pain, he half sighed, half said, "Oh! dear, dear!" and then dozed off again. It was about an hour later that Susi heard Majwara again outside the door, "Bwana want you, Susi." On reaching the bed the Doctor told him he wished him to boil some water, and for this purpose he went to the fire outside, and soon returned with the copper kettle full. Calling him close, he asked him to bring his medicine chest and to hold the candle near him, for the man noticed he could hardly see. With great difficulty Dr. Livingstone selected the calomel, which he told him to place by his side; then, directing him to pour a little water into a cup, and to put another empty one by it, he said in a low, feeble voice, "All right; you can go out now." These were the last words he was ever heard to speak.

ONE OF MICHLER'S ANECDOTES.—General Michler, who was with Sherman during the "march to the sea," tells the following story of his colored servant Joe, which is very good: Joe, with the colored cook, went one night to a meeting. On their return the two seated themselves outside General Michler's tent and discussed the sermon, which was upon the miracle of the "loaves and fishes." "Don' un'stan' dat 't all," said the cook; can't make out how dat mir'cle wuz nowhays." "Dat aint nuffin'," responded the other; "cain see dat ar easy 'nuff. Dar wor seben t'ousan' loabes an' five t'ousan' fishes 'sides 'mong de twelbe postles; mir'cle wor dey didn't bust."

MILITARY MOVEMENTS OF THE FRENCH AND GERMAN ARMIES.—London, Jan. 3.—The announcement from Paris that a series of military maneuvers by the French army would take place in the spring is the subject of considerable speculation in political circles here. It is also reported from Berlin that great maneuvers of the German army will occur at the same time. Both reports are received with distrust, as it is contended that the spring of the year would never be chosen for military maneuvers on account of the damage that would be done to the crops. Such a movement would be considered as a preliminary to war.

A fine cow belonging to a Mr. Acker, who lives about two and a half miles north of Hillsboro, was killed recently by one of Mr. Acker's mules, which broke loose during the night and kicked and stamped the poor brute almost into jelly.

Wm. Stevens, living near Greenville, Washington county, while chopping, recently, struck a vine maple sapling that was bent down and the sharp end sprang back and struck him in the left eye cutting the eye ball and destroying the sight.

Two men were arrested by the sheriff of Lane county last week on suspicion that they were the parties concerned in robbing the stage at Diamond Wells station, in Nevada, on the 2d ult., but they proved they were in Oregon about that time, and were released.

Articles of incorporation have been filed with the Secretary of State for the Tygh and Grass valley road company, to run from Pendleton's mills in Tygh valley to a point on the Dalles military road near the Deschutes. The incorporators are Joseph H. Shearer, D. M. French and J. W. French.

A revival has been recently going on at Smith's church, at Carlton, Yamhill county, under the direction of Rev. Mr. Lynch. After a continuation of ten days, services closed on Wednesday of last week. The result of this work was twelve accessions to the church, nine new baptisms and three re-unions.

The Lafayette Courier says: A large number of sheep are dying in different parts of Yamhill county, caused by leeches. Mr. Geo. Perkins has lost a great many and reports more dying—as high as ten and fifteen dying in one day. He has tried his sheep on low as well as high lands, as was recommended, but without any perceptible benefit.

A. Palmer, on the island above Corvallis, in connection with Hon. I. N. Smith, of Linn county, finished putting in ten acres of hops last week, and will probably have in eight acres more this week. The island is very productive for wheat, but Mr. Palmer thinks hops will pay much better. This is an experiment, and we predict for it perfect success.

The parties who went out on the route of the proposed Yaquina railroad, returned to Corvallis during the forepart of last week, and report having found a practicable route over which a road can be built at a much less cost than was at first supposed. Mr. R. A. Habersham, the civil engineer, was to place a report of his trip before the board of directors last Saturday.

The Powder river wood and lumber company has filed articles of incorporation in the office of the Secretary of State. The object of the incorporation is to improve the channel of Powder river, and to raft and drive wood, logs and lumber on the same. The principal office is at Baker City. The capital stock is $5,000, divided into shares of $100 each. The incorporators are Daniel Smith, C. M. Foster and L. B. Ison.

A letter from Umatilla county to the Record says: "The winter, so far, has been more favorable than any during the past three or four years. The ground had scarcely been covered with snow up to Christmas night, when the snow fell about two inches deep, which has now about all disappeared. The weather during the past month has been warm and pleasant for the time of year, with plenty of rain and chinook winds."

The Statesman says: "Having heard a rumor on the street Friday afternoon, that Gerrand had been reprieved, we sought the Governor and learned that the execution is suspended until the 29th day of January, 1875, in order to allow the late act of the Legislature, relating to criminal executions to take effect, and in order to allow a reasonable time to intervene between the final judgment of the supreme court and the execution of the final sentence."

The Hillsboro Independent says: "The sickness and number of deaths in the neighborhood of Gaston this fall and winter has been fearful when we consider the comparative healthiness of the country. Since Frank L. Stott's death in November nearly every week has added a victim to disease or accident. G. M. Raymond, Mrs. Chatfield, John Dixon, Mr. Baker and a daughter of O. J. Lebo, all died in succession. And now we have the death of Mrs. Reinewald, on the Hallett farm, a man by the name of Cowles and Mr. W. C. Black, while there are others that are on the sick list and one of them, Mrs. John Dixon, is not expected to live."

The stockholders of the Washington Agricultural Society met at the court house at Hillsboro on January 5, 1875, at 1 o'clock P. M., and was called to order by the President, A. Luelling. On motion W. H. H. Myers was elected Secretary. The election of a board of directors for the year 1875 was made, resulting as follows: R. Imbrie, W. G. Scoggin W. E. Jackson, A. Luelling, S. G. Reed, Henry Wooley, J. Freeman, W. H. H. Myers and W. D. Pittenger. The following resolution—Resolved, That no license should be given for the sale of malt or spirituous liquors on the society's grounds during the fair of 1875—elicited a pretty sharp discussion, and was passed by a close vote of 109 to 102.

We take the following items from the Ochoco correspondent of the Corvallis Democrat, under date of Dec. 30th: The winter has been very mild, no snow until the 18th of December, when the snow commenced falling, and at the time of writing was from 2½ to 3 inches deep in the valley. Cattle are doing well, none having died from starvation. The town of Prineville contains 45 houses, 2 clean, 70c; land, 13 cents; butter, 35 cents; eggs, 25 cents, hogs, dressed, 5 to 6½ cents per lb. stores, 1 saloon, 1 wagon shop, 1 blacksmith shop, 1 Masonic and Odd Fellows' hall, 1 Good Templar's hall, 1 large public school, and 1 boarding house. Christmas was celebrated by a grand ball and Christmas tree, both of which went off in fine style. The new grist mill is finished, and is a very fine one, capable of furnishing flour for the valley.

According to the Independent some very lively times were seen about the village of Glencoe, on Christmas and New Year's. On Christmas night a dozen fellows got gloriously drunk. One of the citizens of Glencoe put four drunken men in his straw pile and tied them together to keep them from wandering off and getting lost. One fellow named Mack, from Erin's lovely Isle, was fished out of a mud hole late in the evening. Another man named "One Eyed Riley," (John Ebert) crawled into a neighboring cow yard and lay helpless in the soft and odorous mud, and groaned and howled until the lady of the place heard him and finally got him into her house where he stayed all night. It was well for him that she found him as he might now be in a land where wood is something less than $2 a cord. And good Samaritans were seen far into the night with lights, hunting the drunken men out of the mud holes and adjacent grub patches

The Daily Oregonian.

MONDAY MORNING JANUARY 11, 1875

THE INTIMIDATION DODGE

For several weeks past, the administration organ in this city has been charging upon the people of Louisiana, and the South generally the murder and intimidation at the polls of Republican citizens, white and black Last Friday morning the OREGONIAN challenged the organ to produce a single well authenticated case of this kind occurring within the two weeks prior to the meeting of the Louisiana Legislature The Bulletin confesses its inability to meet the challenge It doesn't know of any "outrages" of recent occurrence, but it "points with pride," as the regulation platform has it, to what is known as the Grant parish massacre, and the Coushatta difficulty, and "the massacre of nearly two hundred Republicans" by John T Monroe at the head of a band of roughs in 1860!

Our object in asking for a bill of particulars was merely to ascertain on what Kellogg based his application to the President for more troops If the people of Louisiana were quiet, if there was no turbulence in New Orleans, if there had been no bloodshed since the spring of 1874 and no intimidation since the election—then what need of an army at the meeting of the Louisiana Legislature, more than at the inauguration of Gov Tilden in New York? If it be true that the people were submitting quietly to the scandalous wrongdoing of the Returning Board, and all thought of remedy by armed insurrection had been given up, what motive induced Kellogg to crowd the streets of New Orleans last Monday, with United States troops? It cannot escape the dullest mind that it was his intention to overawe the Legislature by a show of bayonets, and further afflict the people by thus proving that the power of the Federal government was to be used to fasten the chains of a despotism upon them

That the city of New Orleans was quiet and peaceable for many weeks prior to January 4th is [illegible] denied The true character of the dreaded White League was beginning to make itself known It was seen that the White League was made up of the best and wealthiest citizens of Louisiana—men whose highest interests public and private, were dependent on the preservation of good order, The recognized leaders of the Conservative party, the committee of seventy, and all the influential politicians of that faith were counselling submission. As for the September disturbance, in which the White League largely figured, we have never seen any good reason to change an opinion expressed at the time that while the seizure of arms was beyond question a flagrant violation of the Constitution, armed revolt against the outrage was unjustifiable and injurious What shadow of excuse, then, had Gov Kellogg for calling on the President for additional troops? It is not to be wondered at that the Congressional committee "has finds" there is as much intimidation on one side as on the other" The forcible dispersion of the Legislature was "intimidation" of the grossest kind

A CASE OF TAXATION WITHOUT REPRESENTATION

The sovereign State of Nevada is in a [illegible] plight just now That bonanza is "what's the matter" "An immense body of silver, averaging all the way from $100 to $20,000 per ton," has lured the great man Jones, him of memorandum fame, from the winter season of Congress to San Francisco Jones is about to get married, and in his present desperate state of mind is in no condition for the Senate So he is dabbling in stocks. Stewart, senior Senator from Nevada, he of pagoda fame (we can think of nothing else for which he is famous), is about to return to private life, where the advantages for money getting in the quickest way are said to be far less than they are in public life Not that Stewart ever made a fortune by putting himself where he could do the most good, for we have never heard him accused of that, but then he has been a fast friend of railroad lobbies, and he has never lost anything by it So Stewart is also found on 'change in San Francisco Congressman Kendall, Nevada's only Representative, is deeply interested in the pending Senatorial election He is in Virginia City working like a beaver

Some of the newspapers say there are people in Nevada ill natured enough to growl at these doings. It does look a little queer However, we are glad that the presence of that great man Jones was not indispensable to the passage of the Sanate Finance bill, and that the wheels of the Government have made one or two revolutions in the absence of Stewart So far as we can see, the influence of bonanza on the public service is by no means bad

WILL THEY ACCEPT IT?

The Albany Journal is one of the oldest, as well as one of the most radical, administration papers in interior New York. The editorial taken from the Journal published in Saturday's OREGONIAN, is a fair illustration of the spirit in which the appointment of the Louisiana Investigating Committee was received by the Eastern press It was conceded on all sides that Speaker Blaine had selected men of excellent judgment, first rate ability, and undoubted integrity With the Journal other influential papers agreed to accept the findings of the committee as just as fair a statement of facts as could be had

The final report of this committee has not yet been made public but the utterances of several members in New Orleans indicate what the general tone of the document will be Now if the report corresponds to the sentiments attributed to Mr Phelps and others what will the organs do about it? They have strongly endorsed the committee, and what can they consistently do but accept it as truthful and final? We presume that those organs which have not yet spoken—like the Bulletin—will hardly question the honesty and ability of this committee If they do not, prepare for another humiliating retractation from the Bulletin

WILLFUL FALSEHOOD OR WOFFUL IGNORANCE

In keeping with its well established character for a kind of sensational recklessness of truth, and in accordance with its disposition to utter the most baseless falsehood with all the assurance of an assumed honesty, the Bulletin, of Saturday, garbles and misrepresents the remarks of the commercial reporter of the OREGONIAN on the state of the wheat market of last Thursday

The garbler publishes the following paragraph, which is the nearest a correct statement of the condition of the wheat market the columns of that sheet have contained for some time being a part of our report on the wheat market on the day before

The market is unchanged in important particulars since our last review buyers taking freely all good lots offering at current rates $1 37½ per cental—but they are not pressing the market at these figures some symptoms of weakness being noted in the Liverpool market while San Francisco is firm owing to the extraordinary surplus of tonnage in that port seeking charters

This is very well, but in order to make a point the Bulletin very readily runs to its refuge of lies,' and says 'And that is all it [the OREGONIAN] had in relation to wheat" Now here is what our readers who care enough for what the railroad organ says about the matter, will find in our commercial column of the DAILY, though our WEEKLY has much more of the date referred to

Latest telegrams from Liverpool denote a quiet market Quotations are as follows For California cargoes on the spot 10s 3d Oregon ditto 10s 6d cargoes Oregon for shipment to Cork 9s 3d do do Liverpool 9s 10d per cental Liverpool cargoes for shipment 4os 6d per quarter of 500lbs

The [home] market is unchanged in important particulars since our last review buyers taking freely all good lots offering at current rates—$1 37½ per cental—but they are not pressing the market at these figures some symptoms of weakness being noted in the Liverpool market while San Francisco is firm owing to the extraordinary surplus of tonnage in that port seeking charters.

Wheat in San Francisco—Good $1 62½@1 67½ for desirable lots millers will go $1 70

We here subjoin what the Bulletin gives as its own statement of what it said of the wheat market on the same day

Wheat in San Francisco is quotable at $1 60 per cental

A private telegram from Liverpool to day reported a weaker tendency in the wheat market The following quotations still rule Average Oregon wheat for prompt shipment to Liverpool is quotable at 9s 10d per cental do do for prompt shipment to Cork 9s 3d Spot cargoes California average are quotable at 10s per cental Spot lots of Oregon are quotable at 10s 3d to 10s 6d the last named figure being ex warehouse

The wheat market in the interior judging from reports seems to be quite active while in this city it is dull and devoid of interest The leading buyers are all represented in the market, and now that they have succeeded in raising the price millers are competing with them and for selected lots are paying a slight advance even upon $1 40 which is the highest point reached since the late advance

Now, we will show our readers and the editors in-chief of the Bulletin, how their commercial man obtained the report which they parade before the readers of that sheet as being just the thing for the farmers, Grangers and everybody On Tuesday morning of last week three days before a knowledge of the fact appears to have reached the Bulletin, under the heading, 'Wheat Market,' the OREGONIAN said

Matters under this head have had quite a lively turn at some wheat centers in the interior, say Albany and Corvallis, very recently Last week parties in order to supply their immediate wants paid 82½ cents per bushel at the former place, which under the ordinary freight charges would be equivalent to a trifle over $1 40 per cental at this point and hence the market here has been quoted at $1 40 though we know of none changing hands today at any price Exporters differ widely in their present estimate of the market quoting all the way from $1 32½ to $1 40 per cental but we think the extremes are $1 35@1 40

On the Friday following the activity, caused by the competition between buyers for the two vessels, the Middlesex and Grandlooch and millers, had in a great measure subsided, the vessels having secured their full cargoes but the Bulletin's commercial reporter parades the news of the activity as an evidence of his "diligence" in securing late news, though the matter was much more clearly stated in this paper three days before We did not hold the news back until it could do no one any good When we gave the news those having grain to sell could have taken some advantage of it, but when our contemporary came in three days later, and copied the substance of our remarks, the time had passed, and the opportunity to profit by the advance had gone. One question and we will leave this fraud in journalism on this point Why does the Bulletin keep standing at the head of its commercial column "wheat in San Francisco quotable at $1 60 per cental," when it knows that the cereal is worth 2½@10 cents more than that in that market? We know it is not ignorance, nor do we believe it is negligence, which accounts for this falsehood kept standing at the head of the commercial column of the Bulletin for three or four days past for the news dispatches which that paper would willingly change to suit its purpose but for fear of detection inform it what wheat is worth in San Francisco, but it looks very much as if its wrong quotation was thus prominently kept before its readers to mislead

The Bulletin in the same article above referred to, says

We forbear to refer particularly to the report in the OREGONIAN that the Oriflamme and Celestina sailed away on Thursday, what they did not leave until Friday afternoon And on account of the disappointment and loss that statement brought upon two gentlemen receiving it may be OUR fun our loss at news

This story is entirely too much like gauze for this weather is no two men would be likely to ever get away from home who would be so foolish as to come to Portland from up the valley on the day on which the Oriflamme was announced to sail, and that announcement had been published for a week and not know until the day after that the time of sailing was postponed Besides, the local and advertising columns of the ORIGONIAN contained full information of the postponement and these columns are the places which men, and especially travelers, generally look at first Your two gentlemen, Mr Bulletin are in all probability myths conjured up in the brain of your reporters who were too much afraid of the chilling winds which swept the streets last Friday, to look for items out side of back numbers of the ORIGONIAN The Bulletin is often a day or two behind the time in its commercial, local and State news but on the occasion referred to in the matter of wheat quotations, the editor of that sheet makes a wide blunder by supposing that his commercial columns contained any facts which were new or important to the public at the time mentioned.

We have thus shown a few instances in which that journal boasting of its promptness and correctness has not only made bungling errors and misstatements but has debased its columns to the circulation of absolute falsehoods and made them the channels of false reports which could not fail to mislead and damage the interests of those who, not knowing fully the character of the sheet, may have placed confidence in its assertions

A PROPER DEMONSTRATION

The call for a meeting to voice the indignation of the people of New York at recent outrages by the Federal Government on the republican institutions of Louisiana is signed by many influential Republicans of the former state The meeting is to be held in Cooper Institute to night Among the names appended to the call that of Wm Cullen Bryant the venerable poet editor is noticeable Mr Bryant is known to the press and to newspaper readers as the most careful and conservative political writer of this generation He is not easily excited So with Wm M Evarts the eminent lawyer, and so with others among the signers We expect much good from this meeting in New York city We doubt not it will afford a fair expression of the real opinions of all good men of all parties It is a good sized straw, indicating the direction which public opinion has been slowly taking for two years past We hope to publish full reports of the meeting on Wednesday morning

We regret to announce the death last even ing of the wife of H W Scott Esq of this city, after a brief illness of seven or eight days The bereaved husband will have the sympathy of a large circle of acquaintances in his severe affliction

A gentleman from New York city Mr John Forsythe a mineral explorer by occupation is in jail in Webster county charged with the murder of Mr Plumess Barton, of Philadelphia in whose company he visited Webster county over a month ago Mr Forsythe's version is that on the 13th of November last they both ascended Letrors Peak a high dreary looking knob eight or ten miles east of Addison for the purpose of examining some curious meteoric stones which were said to abound near and upon the summit and that while up there were overtaken by a violent meteoric shower composed of huge missiles of various sizes, some of which exploded like a bomb shell in their fall and that Mr Barton was killed by a blow on the temple causing a sound not unlike that made by a pistol ball Night intervening Mr Forsythe watched over the corpse of his friend until morning when he returned to Addison for assistance There the people suspected foul play from certain contradictory statements and the fact that Mr Barton's valuables were found upon his person, arrested Mr Forsythe, who was so excited and distracted by all that had happened to him within the last twenty four hours that he could not find the place where he had abandoned the remains which were accidentally discovered by a hunter on the following day Mr Forsythe appeals to scientific men of the country to extricate him from the suspicion of a heinous crime by a thorough investigation of the catastrophe and feels perfectly confident in the vindication of his innocence This is undoubtedly one of the most singular and mysterious cases of death we ever heard of and hope that no pains may be spared to arrive at the facts

VOL. [illegible] PORTLAND, SATURDAY MORNING, JANUARY 11, 1875. NO. [illegible]

VANCOUVER.—Last Saturday afternoon the Vancouver left this city at [illegible] hour. On arriving at Vancouver, [illegible] fearing that the river might close [illegible] night, determined to start back with[illegible]. The result showed that his apprehensions were well founded. About 6 o'clock [illegible] started for Portland. She had [illegible] far before large quantities of ice were encountered, and [illegible]ulty that the boat could [illegible] through the floating masses. [illegible] way was completely blocked up, [illegible] was compelled to allow the [illegible] drift with the ice. Three hours [illegible] in making the distance from [illegible] to the mouth of the river. The [illegible] sides of the boat were considerably [illegible] and a hole almost cut through the [illegible] At a late hour the Vancouver was moored at the wharf here. Yesterday [illegible] above and below the water [illegible] rough plank, and the bow protected [illegible] Unless there is a break in [illegible] the steamer will not attempt to [illegible]. Passengers, freight and the [illegible] not ashore on the north bank of [illegible], opposite the mouth of the Walla[illegible] at the point of debarkation, freight, [illegible], etc., can be conveyed to Vancouver [illegible] [illegible] five miles.

OVERLAND MAILS.—Owing to the [illegible] of floating ice in the Columbia river [illegible] mouth of the Wallamet, the steamer [illegible] did not attempt to reach the Cascades [illegible] to-day. The mails [illegible] this city [illegible] Dalles will be conveyed overland. As [illegible], semi-weekly service will be had [illegible] present blockade. The mails will [illegible] Island and the Dalles on Tuesday and [illegible]. The mail which left the [illegible] Friday morning was due here last [illegible] time, and that which left the Cas[illegible]land for the Dalles the same day [illegible] destination yesterday. Letters and [illegible] papers will be carried through, but [illegible] will, of necessity, be excluded [illegible] mails for the present. Mr. Moody [illegible] employed several men to carry the mails [illegible] horseback. He has made arrange[illegible] with the steamer Vancouver to convey [illegible] to and fro between Portland and [illegible] as long as the Lower Columbia remains [illegible] to navigation the mails and express [illegible] be carried as heretofore on the O. S. [illegible]. In the event of a blockade they [illegible] be conveyed by such other means [illegible] possible.

STEAMERS.—At present the several [illegible] boats are busily employed [illegible] Columbia and Wallamet rivers. [illegible] and Ajax have their hands [illegible] full off the bar, and to tow [illegible] in and out to the open sea. [illegible] time is divided about [illegible] towing vessels up and down [illegible] Portland and Astoria, and [illegible] mill with logs. The [illegible] and Josie McVicar are kept [illegible] in towing rafts of logs up [illegible]. The tug Merrimac, which [illegible] from stem to stern, is [illegible] plying the mills at Knappa. [illegible] tug Varuna is en[illegible] loaded with grain, to [illegible] steamer Annie Stewart is [illegible] by the O. S. N. Co. for [illegible] purposes. With the [illegible] and Otter, not a steam[illegible] while On the Upper [illegible] activity can be noted. [illegible] Chief Gen. Fuller, Capt. [illegible], Dekum [illegible] not as busy as so many [illegible].

The intensity of religious [illegible] the Union meetings dur[illegible], and especially in the [illegible] the several clos[illegible] week of united [illegible] souls. Believing that [illegible] his property is that which [illegible] good they earnestly [illegible] Portland to spend three [illegible] of the present week in the [illegible] spiritual welfare. This [illegible] a Union meeting will be [illegible] Church conducted [illegible] evening at 7:30 P. M., [illegible] daily. Those not able to [illegible], are invited to drop in [illegible] the evening even to the last [illegible] Union meeting will also be held [illegible] Church on Wednesday [illegible] the Baptist Church on Friday [illegible] will hold their usual [illegible].

[illegible]ON.—Mr. Beesmon, of the [illegible]dy, is now engaged in overhaul[illegible] which was taken out of the [illegible] Alexandria, at Victoria some [illegible] and subsequently purchased by [illegible]. He has erected a small tem[illegible]shop below the Greenwich Dock, [illegible] of the river, and is devoting his [illegible] the cleaning and burnishing up the [illegible]leaders, and putting [illegible] her the [illegible] which are attached to the en[illegible]y next summer Mr. Becannon pro[illegible]ld a large boat for towage purposes [illegible] will be placed the machinery now [illegible]nalled. The engines are of greater [illegible] than any now used on the river [illegible] the new tug when fully equipped [illegible] will be the most powerful one in [illegible].

ARRESTED FOR ADULTERY.—A Mrs. Harvey [illegible]ested on Friday night, charged with [illegible]e of adultery. She was taken to the [illegible] but subsequently released on $250 [illegible] morning the case will come up for [illegible] in police court. The charge is [illegible] the husband, who, it seems, fol[illegible] the [illegible] from San Francisco, [illegible] left San Francisco last fall, and [illegible] to Portland. Several months [illegible] the husband discovered the [illegible] the wife. On ascertaining [illegible] lost no time in following. [illegible] few days since. She was [illegible] of a house of ill-fame, [illegible] fact, the husband caused [illegible] to give for her arrest. [illegible] the case will be elicited on the [illegible] morning.

[illegible].—The schooner Hera, [illegible] the bar from San Francisco a [illegible] that nothing was seen or [illegible] here from New York. The Midas [illegible] down the 6th of last June, [illegible] here about the 1st of November. [illegible] November she was spoken sev[illegible] miles off San Francisco. Since [illegible] a word has been heard of the [illegible] now almost two months since the [illegible]ken, and considerable appre[illegible] felt for her safety. Either she [illegible] and has been compelled to put [illegible] port for repairs, or else has gone [illegible]. Information can be accounted for on [illegible].

ACCIDENT.—A few days since a Mr. [illegible], who resides in the northern portion [illegible], met with a very painful accident. [illegible] is employed on board the steamer [illegible]. While engaged with another person [illegible] using a bar of iron, heated al[illegible] a small piece became suddenly [illegible] flying violently up, struck Mr. [illegible] in the left cheek, just below the eye. [illegible] was cut in the cheek and the [illegible] completely open. In addition to this [illegible] flesh was severely burned and the [illegible] vision of the eye rudely lacer[illegible] that night, in all probability, forever [illegible]. Drs. Wilson and Watkins were [illegible] the painful wound dressed.

[illegible] ERROR.—From the records of the [illegible] Station of Observation, Portland [illegible], January 10, 1875:

[illegible].—Early on Saturday morning the California and Oriflamme were met by the Dixie Thompson steaming down the river at good rate. These steamers reached [illegible] at 6 o'clock A. M. on Saturday, [illegible] proceeded to sea without any delay. [illegible] the bar was reported quite [illegible] on Saturday was smooth.

COASTING.—At the present time in the East, sleighing, skating, etc., is at its height, and is highly enjoyed; but here on the w[illegible]ern coast but little snow has thus far fallen. A heavy frost, backed up by an inch or more of snow, has been taken advantage of, however. For the past two or three days the boys and girls of the city have been experiencing a high old time in coasting along on the frozen sidewalks, much, we have reason to suspect, to the inconvenience and annoyance of pedestrians. As yet but one serious accident has occurred from the daring juvenile sport. On Saturday morning a lad, while running down a steep grade, was thrown violently forward and severely injured.

ICE IN THE RIVER.—When the steamer Dixie Thompson came up from Astoria on Saturday, although the weather was extremely cold, not a particle of ice was found in the river. Some hours later the schobner Hera, in tow of the tug Brenham, came along. For a considerable distance above St. Helens ice was encountered. It was in detached fragments and about one inch thick. The vessel and the tug managed to plough through without damage or detention. To-day the Astoria boats will, in all probability, encounter difficulty in forcing a passage safely through the masses of floating ice.

LOST AND FOUND.—From the Boston Democrat we learn that a week or so since a firm in that city purchased a safe, second hand, from a gentleman in Portland, and upon its arrival the new owners opened it and found therein a beautiful diamond ring. Visions of New Year's presents, etc., flashed before the mind of our townsmen, but they concluded to write and make sure in regard to the matter. In answer they were informed that the ring was a valuable one, (worth $300,) and had been deposited in the safe for safe keeping. The owner received his ring by Wednesday's express.

STEAMER ALBANY.—Efforts are being made to raise this boat, which was sunk last Wednesday opposite the mouth of Long Tom, and she is expected to be got afloat soon. The steamer Success has gone to the assistance of the disabled boat with all necessary appliances. Doubtless ere the present writing the hole in the hull has been closed, water pumped out, and both steamers are bound down the river. Not a pound of freight was damaged, as the water did not reach the guards. The damage to the boat is very slight, not exceeding $50.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.—At a regular convention of Excelsior Lodge No. 2, K. of P., held on Wednesday evening, Jan. 7, 1875, the following officers elect were duly installed by Deputy Supreme Chancellor O. F. Bell: Isaac Blum, C. C.; Theodore Barker, V. C.; C. Abrams, P. ; J. F. Rodgers, K. of R. and S.; Wm. K. Witherell, M. of F.; L. Lochman, M. of E.; J. Quinn, M. at A.; —Murphy, I. G.; Geo. A. Price, O. G.; John Holmes, Le F. A. Shaw and A. Wilson, Trustees.

PURCHASE OF REAL ESTATE.—The News of East Portland says: Mr. J. T. Robinson, of this city, has returned from Astoria, where he has been for the past few days attending to business. Mr. Robinson, while at Astoria, purchased the two fine residences at that place formerly owned by Captain M. M. Gilman, paying therefore the sum of $1,200. Mr. Robinson also purchased the property of Captain Gilman in this city, located between Fifth and Sixth, for the sum of $3,200.

ARRIVED.—The Hera arrived Saturday night from San Francisco. She brought a full cargo ---300 tons---consisting principally of salt and iron. The Hera sailed from San Francisco on the 26th of December, and after a passage of twelve days arrived off the bar. Light northerly winds were experienced throughout. Two barks were spoken when the Hera was but a few days out, and the schooner Oregonian was about 250 miles south of the bar, boating down the coast.

A SEVERE FALL.—While on his way home, a few evenings since, Mr. Robinson, of East Portland, slipped upon the ice that now covers our streets and fell to the pavement, striking his head and cutting a gash therein near the left temple. The fall was so heavy that for a few moments Mr. Robinson was rendered unconscious. Yesterday morning, however, the gentleman was about, and complains only of a feeling of soreness, quite natural under the circumstances.

POISONED.—Last Friday morning a little girl living in the upper portion of the city, was poisoned by scraping off from the wall a small quantity of newly applied paint. Soon after swallowing the paint, the child grew deathly sick, and to great alarm the parents sent for a physician. An emetic was administered by the doctor, and after vomiting up the poisonous substance the child was immediately relieved and has entirely recovered.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.—The Philomathean Literary Society, at a meeting held last Saturday evening, elected the following officers: President, H. B. Nicholas; Vice President, C. J. Mulkey; Recording Secretary, W. R. Struble; Corresponding Secretary, Alonzo Cleaver; Treasurer, F. E. Beach; Censor, S. W. Rice; Editor, W. H. Adams; Sergeant-at-Arms, Henry Chaffey.

ABOUT AGAIN.—Mr. George Moulthrop, who met with a severe accident last week, is able to hobble about again. At first it was thought the bones of his ankle were fractured, but on examination it was ascertained that a bad sprain was the extent of the injuries. He can walk about slowly, but will not be able to resume active labor for several days.

POSTPONED.—In consequence of the death of Mrs. Scott the course of lectures announced to take place at Masonic Hall the present week has been postponed for the present. Due notice will be given of the course.

SOCIAL EVENTS.

THE RECEPTION.—The reception given the Philomathean Literary Society, last Friday evening, at Good Templars' Hall, was a very sociable and pleasant affair. About two hundred persons were present. The company was favored with music at intervals during the evening by Mrs. H. Y. Thompson, Miss Lambertson and Prof. Brenner. A bountiful feast was spread and an abundance of eatables provided. Supper was announced at 10 o'clock, and all present were served with coffee, bread, etc., by attentive young ladies. A beautiful frosted cake bearing the inscription, "Compliments of the young ladies, Jan. 8, 1875," was presented to the society by Miss Taylor. After supper some games were played, and then the merry party broke up. The society tender their thanks to the many young ladies who managed the affair so successfully, and hope some time to repay the compliment.

AMUSEMENTS.

MUSEUM.—Although a decided falling off in the attendance at this place of amusement was noticeable, a good attendance was present on Saturday night. An attractive programme was presented, which afforded all present a favorable opportunity to laugh, which they were not slow to improve. Songs and sketches by Cal. Mandeville, Dutchisms by Fred. Gere, songs and dances by Miss Belle Jefferson and Mr. Benton, songs by little "Rosa" and Master Johnny, and opening and closing with a roaring farce, constituted the "bill of fare." Good order was preserved, and the performance was devoid of the least appearance of coarseness or vulgarity. To-morrow will close the engagement of the Mandeville troupe.

RESOLUTIONS OF THANKS.

At a meeting of the Philomathean Literary Society on Saturday evening last a committee on resolutions presented the following, which were unanimously adopted and ordered published:

Resolved, That we do hereby publicly tender to them our thanks, together with the assurance that the evening shall long be remembered by us as being one of the most pleasant and profitable ever spent.

Resolved, further, That we do fully appreciate the motives which prompted said entertainment, and shall ever consider the affair one of the most agreeable events in the history of our society.

"THEM HARNESS."

A poet says: "Oh, she was fair, but sorrow came and left his traces there." What became of the rest of the harness he doesn't state.—Exchange.

Oh, no! Further down the hill of poetry it says: "Come with me, my lassie, and I'll take thee to my home." The balance of the harness is still missing.—La Crosse Democrat.

You are mistaken about that. The same poet, speaking of the same young lady, says: "And all the lines that sorrow left have faded out in joy." The rest of the harness is still missing.—Exchange.

Nay; still another piece has turned up; for further on the muse informs us that "Loving hands and simple flowers had decked her for the bridal." Nothing has yet transpired as to the whereabouts of the rest of the harness.—York Republican.

All a mistake, for hath not Addison said: "Give me but the belt this waist hath bound---a fig take all the rest of all the world around." Don't be discouraged, friends, the rest of the harness is bound to come.—Ohio State Journal.

Of course it is, for hath not the poet said: "When Greek, Greek, then comes the tug of war." Pass along the balance.—Toledo Blade.

We found a part of it: "Within a mile of Edinboro' town," where "The lassie blushed and frowning cried, 'No, no, no, it will not do; I canna', canna', wonna', wonna', munna' buckle to.'" Who can hitch up the remainder of the harness?—Cleveland Herald.

Here are two more pieces: You'll find the crupper hidden under the "moving tale" about the old lady who lost her trust in Providence when the breeching broke.—St. Paul Press.

The remainder can be found. Shakspeare makes Macbeth say: "Blow wind, come rack, at least we'll die with harness on our back." Find where Macbeth is buried, and the harness is there.—Cleveland Leader.

THE NORTH POLE.—What a weird attraction that frozen wilderness called the pole, lying away up north, far from any man's ken, exercises on the mind of humanity! Brave men and gallant ships sail away up in the distant latitudes in search of the unknown and apparently unknowable. Some disappear and leave no trace. Others leave only their bones to bleach amid the frozen snows as landmarks of endeavor; but human energy will not be checked by these silent monitors. There is something so very heroic in this exploration of inhospitable seas and wildernesses of ice that no one can repress a glow of enthusiasm at the announcement of a new expedition. This time it is England that sails in to comfort, and, if possible, overcome the dangers and difficulties that lie in the path of navigators seeking to reach the Pole. Two steamers will be fitted out by the British government. They will be commanded by Captain Markham, of the Royal navy, and leave England in May on their dangerous expedition.—N. Y. Herald.

RELIC OF THE UNDERWOOD-GOSS MURDER.—Baltimore, Dec. 22.—The case of A. C. Goss, on trial for perjury, which has been going on in the district court for two weeks, was given to the jury yesterday, who came into court this morning, and, failing to agree, were discharged. The alleged perjury was evidence given by Goss in the suit of Mrs. W. S. Goss against the Mutual Life Insurance Company, of New York, to recover an insurance policy on the life of her husband, Winfield S. Goss, for whose murder in 1873, W. E. Underwood was recently hanged in Westchester, Pa.

AN OREGON INVENTION.

BUCHTEL'S ELECTRIC SIGNAL HOSE---WHAT AN EASTERN PAPER SAYS OF IT---TEST BY THE CLEVELAND FIRE DEPARTMENT.

[From the Cleveland (Ohio) Daily Herald, Dec. 19.]

Several times during the present week, our attention has been called to the matter of a signal hose, or as it may properly be called a new system of signals and a new manner of conveying orders from the chief or any of the pipe-men to the engineer in charge of the engine, and through him to the entire department when necessary or desirable. As we have stated before, a test was arranged to take place at 2:30 P. M. on Friday on the public square, under the supervision of Mr. Goodrich, of the Akron rubber works. Promptly at that time, No. 1's engine might have been seen coming into position followed by a wagon containing the hose and accompanied by Chief Engineer Hill and the different members of the fire commission.

In a few minutes a number of sections of hose were laid, and the signal given to "go" was promptly answered by the engineer by a corresponding signal with the whistle on his his engine, which then began its work. For a few minutes there seemed a trouble to understand the signals, the system used by Mr. Goodrich being different from that in use by the department here; but this was easily overcome, and in a short time the answers given to orders from the farthest end, or any of the couplings along the line of hose, were instantaneous, and the workings of the engine shown to be entirely at the command of those who from their positions could best see and judge the requirements of the situation.

Being a new invention, a few words concerning its construction may be of interest. The hose, in appearance, does not differ from that ordinarily in use, nor are there any extra appliances liable to give out. In the manufacture of the hose at the works, there are laid between the fabrics used in its construction two courses of insulated wire which are brought to the surface within the couplings. These courses of wires are carried over each coupling by means of a "bridge" made of rubber in which are also two courses of wire. In this way no matter what the length of the lines of hose may be the wires are made continuous. The electrical power is supplied by a small "battery" placed in the fire box on the engine, connection is made with the "gong," and the telegraph signal is perfect. Within reach of the person holding the nozzle is a "key" which at his touch calls for more or less water, tells the engineer to stop when a change in position is desirable, or hose is to be "carried up," as is often necessary; then tells him to "go" again, no time being lost in giving directions. Then again, every coupling is a "key board" from which messages may be sent with equal ease and certainty.

The result of the test on Friday was in every respect satisfactory, and so pronounced by all who witnessed it. Particular interest was manifested by those at the head of the department, and since its cost is but a trifle more than the ordinary hose, we may reasonably expect to find it adopted, at least in the down town sections, where minutes of time sometimes mean thousands of dollars in losses. It is manufactured at the Akron Rubber Works, Akron, Ohio, in connection with what is known as the White Anchor Hose, said to be one of the best brands made. It is made under letters patent, which are controlled by this company.

A REMINISCENCE OF EDGAR ALLEN POE.

In the new volume of Poe's poems, edited by R. H. Stoddard, the editor, in the preface, thus gives the last scene in the life of Poe:

He started from Richmond Oct. 2, 1849, and arrived at Baltimore between trains, and unfortunately took a drink with a friend, the consequence of which was that he was brought back from Havre de Grace in a state of delirium. It was on the eve of a municipal election, and as he wandered up and down the streets of Baltimore he was secured by the lawless agents of a political club and locked up in a cellar all night. The next morning he was taken out in a state of frenzy, drugged, and made to vote in eleven different wards. The following day he was found in a back room at the political headquarters and removed to a hospital. He was insensible when found, and remained so on Oct. 7. The doctor and nurse were with him when he first showed consciousness. "Where am I?" he asked. They answered, "You are cared for by your best friends." After a pause, in which he seemed to recall what had occurred, and to realize his situation, Poe replied, "My best friend would be the man who would blow out my brains." Within ten minutes he was dead.

If you have money lying idle, bring it to us, and we will loan it out for you on good real estate security, and you will realize 12 per cent. interest on it, net. We get our pay out of the borrower.

PAUSE WHILE YOU READ THIS! The season for parties and balls has arrived and the cold dreary days and nights of winter will soon visit us. Every young man, old man and boy for that matter, likes to present a neat appearance when attending parties, the theater, or walking about the streets. They likewise desire to be well provided against the cold blasts of snow and rain. What contributes more to the personal appearance and comfort of a gentleman, and boy, than a nice closely fitting suit of clothes, set off with a heavy warm overcoat? Why will any one be so foolish as to go without either, when BECK & WALDMAN have everything in that line. Beck & Waldman in laying in their immense fall and winter stock of Clothing have exercised great care, and selected with reference to the demands of trade. They have purchased their goods low and buy determined not to be undersold. Let the public note this fact.

The Chemistry of the Stomach.

As in the more delicate processes of the laboratory, it is essential that the reagents employed to produce chemical changes in matter should be uncontaminated, so also it is imperatively necessary that the fluids of the stomach, which act chemically upon the food, should be perfectly pure. When the stomach is acid, it is because these fluids are vitiated or diluted. Similarly, other forms of indigestion arise from a deficiency of the chemical properties of the gastric juice. The most direct and agreeable way to restore their purity and improve their quality, is to take before each meal a wineglassful of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which corrects acidity, renders digestion complete and painless, and overcome the constipation which it produces. The nervousness and weakness resulting from chronic dyspepsia, also disappear under its influence.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Not long since the sub-contractor, H. B. Parker, on this route (No. 44,123) received his orders from Postal Agent Underwood to carry the mail from Westport, Oregon, via Marshland and Clatskanine, to Riverside, Oregon, instead of starting from Eagle Cliff, W. T. The change was made, and one through trip performed, when lo! here comes an order from the postoffice department at Washington, stating that no such change was made by the department, and ordering Mr. Parker to continue carrying the mail as before from Eagle Cliff.

We hope this will be a final settlement of the affair, and that hereafter we will be able to obtain our regular weekly mail matter, which has been unavoidably delayed by such sudden and unauthorized changes. Let the mail continue from Eagle Cliff.

WHAT ALLIED "UGLY SAM"

A TEMPERANCE STORY

(From the Detroit Free Press.)

He had been missing from the Potomac for several days and Cleveland Sam Port Huron Bill Fall Chicago, and the rest of the boys who were wont to get trunk with him couldn't make out what had happened. They hadn't heard that there was a warrant out for him, had never known of his being sick for a day and his absence from the old haunts puzzled them. Forty were in the Hole in the Wall saloon yesterday morning nearly a dozen of them drank, smoking, and playing cards, when in walked Ugly Sam.

There was a deep silence for a moment as they looked at him. Sam had a new hat, had been shaved clean had on a clean collar and a white shirt and they didn't know him at first. When they saw that it was Ugly Sam they uttered a shout and leaped up.

Cave in that hat!" cried one.

Yank that collar off!" shouted another.

"Let's roll him on the floor" screamed a third.

There was something in his look and bearing which made them hesitate. The whisky red had almost faded from his face and he looked sober and dignified. His features expressed sorrow and he looked around the red eyes and bloated faces of the crowd before him.

Why what ails ye Sam?" inquired Tall Chicago, as they all stood there.

I've come down to tell you good bye boys," he replied removing his hat and drawing a clean handkerchief from his pocket.

What! Have ye turned preacher!" they shouted in chorus.

Boys, you know I can lick any two of ye but I don't go in the fight any more, and I've put down the last drop of whisky which is ever to go into my mouth! I've switched off. I've taken an oath. I am going to be decent!

Sam, be you crazy?" asked Port Huron Bill coming nearer to him.

I never was down here to tell ye all about it," answered Sam. Move the chairs back a little and give me room. Ye all know I've been a rough, and a drunk. I've been a drinker a fighter, a gambler, and a loafer. I can't look back and remember when I've earned an honest dollar. The police has chased me around like a wolf, and I've been in jail and the watch house and the papers has said that Ugly Sam was the terror of the Potomac. Ye all know the boys, but ye didn't know I had an old mother.

The face of the crowd expressed amazement.

I never mentioned it to any of ye for I was neglecting her," he went on. She was a poor old body, living up here in the valley, and if the neighbors hadn't helped her to fuel and food she'd have been found dead long ago. I never helped her a cent. I didn't see her for weeks and weeks, and I used to feel mean about it. When a feller goes back on his old mother he's a-gittin party low and I know it. Well she's dead—buried yesterday! I was up there afore she died. She sent for me by Pete, and when I got there I seen it was all day with her."

[illegible] one of the boys.

This's what ails me now," he went on. When I went in she reached out her hand to me, and, says she, Samuel, I'm going to die and I'd like to see me afore I [illegible] away." I sat down, feeling queer like. She's go on and say as how I was a feller, and had neglected her, and all that, but says she, Samuel, you'll be all alone when I'm [illegible] I'd like to be a good mother to young men, and have prayed for you a hundred o' nights, and cried about you till my eyes [illegible] for the weight [illegible] to, and the tears were crying and I tell you boys I felt weak!"

He [illegible] for a moment and then continued:

Said the old woman, said she'd like to kiss me afore I went, and then—We one night down. She held on to my hand, and bye-and-bye she says, Samuel, you are throwing your life away. You're old in yer body, even if you'll only mend up your mind. I'm to die and feel that my only [illegible] the last of ourn [illegible] go to the poor. If I had [illegible] that you'd turn over a new leaf, and try and be good it [illegible] me, my son." And I promised her boys, and that's what I'm up to! She's holding my hand, and [illegible] this low business, and go to work. I came down to tell ye, and now [illegible] the Potomac again. [illegible] an ax, and am going up to Canada to [illegible]

The [illegible] for a moment, and then he said:

[illegible] shake hands with ye all and [illegible] God bye boys I've good bye [illegible] I won't sling any [illegible] at me, I never sling at any of you. [illegible] you, and I'll keep [illegible]

The meeting broke up, each other after he had [illegible] out, and it was a long time before [illegible] Tall Chicago fluge the chip [illegible] into a corner and said:

I'll lick the man who says Ugly Sam's head isn't level!"

So I'll [illegible] the oth—

[illegible] Bremen Polar Expedition.

The expedition, which will consist of two steam whale-ships and about 120 men and officers, will leave this country next summer and proceed through Davis Straits, up Baffin's Bay to the Pacific [illegible] ts of Disco and Upernavik. Th[illegible] will be its base. Then will it [illegible] northward the volunteers will enter Smith's Sound, and one will be left as an [illegible] depot in at [illegible] north latitude [illegible] while the [illegible] will press on into the open sea which, it is believed, exists about the [illegible] The post-ship will be 548 miles from the [illegible] and the retreat upon it in case of [illegible] will not be difficult to men with [illegible] The expedition will have orders in any case to return in the autumn of 1877, and a [illegible] ner will probably be sent to the [illegible] in the summer of 1876 to bring [illegible] of the condition of the expedition and the [illegible] is of such information as they have [illegible] obtained. The report that Disco [illegible] has been selected as the [illegible] expedition is premature. The [illegible] are divided between the appointment of a young, comparatively inexperienced officer, and a senior officer of experience, but with [illegible] The cost of the expedition is estimated at £30,000 a year.—From a Scotch paper.

Shaving His Head.—Judge Stephenson, of St. Paul, Minnesota has just gained a ridiculous notoriety. Having visited New York and put up at the St Nicholas Hotel he desired to see the fast lady introduced in print and therefore sent the announcement of his arrival to the New York Sun, inclosing with it the sum of $1. The Mephistopheles of the Sun published the personal with a sardonic grin in the shape of the following comment:

The dollar was at once returned to Judge [illegible] with the information that the [illegible] pay for advertisements only and we take pleasure in giving his announcement a gratuitous insertion and in this more conspicuous manner." Probably the Judge will never do so any more. The New York Herald was at once less and more complaisant. It kept the judge's dollar and inserted the notice of his arrival among its regular personal advertisements.

Sailing Through the Air.—Professor Lernander the inventor of the marine and aerial gyrator gave a private exhibition of his invention in Washington Hall yesterday after noon before several of his friends. He inflated a number of small gas balloons sufficient to raise in the air a small model of the patent gyrator. He wound up the clock work which gave motion to the machinery. The exhibition was a complete success. The gyrator sailed through the air in any given direction turned round within its own diameter and rose or fell in obedience to its steering apparatus. Professor Fernandez has applied his extraordinary invention also to submarine navigation, but has yet to test its efficacy in the water. The gentlemen who witnessed the workings of his novel apparatus yesterday were thoroughly convinced that the problem of aerial navigation had been at last successfully solved.—S. F Chronicle Jan 4

The unusually cold weather now prevailing seems still further to depress business in local circles and a very great degree of inactive a pervades all departments of trade. Indeed if we except the fair amount of retail business with city customers which is generally observable on Saturday, [illegible] generally our market is in an easy condition and the circulating capital sufficient for the purposes of legitimate trade. Funds available for remittance to remain for if the products of last year's harvest are in liberal supply and with the occasional complaint of dullness in mercantile matters the public is a fair share of business for the time of the year. Our wheat crop is now fully [illegible] shipped and many claim it will be fourth the end with the aid of the capital brought here from abroad the market has been kept free from embarrassment for want of money during the entire year.

The grain and flour trade still exhibits a deal of activity without any material change in prices though the tendency in both commodities is toward greater firmness which would soon be followed by advanced prices should a good proportion of the tonnage due now and to become due during the present month arrive on anything like time.

In general merchandise there is but little animation in the wholesale and jobbing departments, but few buyers in the market, and that few only to [illegible] the shelf [illegible] the [illegible] of the [illegible] and [illegible] of the [illegible]

[illegible] from the interior of the State, [illegible] generally from up the valley indicate a great [illegible] of wheat than many buyers here seem to believe is yet held in the various warehouses and by the farmers and in many localities where large quantities were raised, from two-thirds to three fourths of the surplus has already been moved. The prospect that three or four large vessels will be in the river to load within the next fortnight makes buyers more anxious to secure large lots at current rates. The San Francisco market is also reported very firm holders asking as high as $1 75 and shipping lots being taken freely at $1 65 @ 1 68 per cental. No undamaged Oregon wheat we are informed is selling in that market at less than $1 60 though occasional lots not cleaned or weevilly may go at $1 60 or even less.
